The Famous 27 Chorus Paul Gonsalves Solo. Few solos in the history of jazz have as much notoriety and hyperbole as the 27-chorus solo played by tenor saxophonist Paul Gonsalves with Duke Ellington's band at the Newport Jazz Festival of 1956. The solo was an interlude between "Diminuendo in Blue" and "Crescendo in Blue," two separate

Paul Gonsalves Transcribed Solo The phrase that Gonsalves states to begin his solo in “Diminuendo” has a boldness, a swagger, an elegance, a deep traditional stamp and a curiosity about it. He manages to keep these attributes alive and threaded together through 27 choruses. Everything can be traced to how he sets this solo up. Page 3/9
